The Factory Girls

by Frank McGuinness

Directed by Caitriona McLaughlin

The Factory Girls signalled the arrival of a singular new voice in Irish theatre; that of Frank McGuinness. Originally produced at The Abbey, The Factory Girls tells of working women faced with redundancy who stage a sit-in at their Donegal shirt-factory.

The Factory Girls is laced with humour, charm and fine acting.
This is a superbly-staged production of a realistic story that could have been written yesterday. Or perhaps to play with. A freakishly good fairground attraction.

A Performance for Children presented by Frozen Charlotte

Paperbelle

'I've rarely seen a toddler audience so happy'
The Scotsman ****

'ingenious and full of magic and amazement'
The Edinburgh Guide *****

Paperbelle's world is black and white and she likes it that way. But how will she manage when things start to change? It's an enchanting theatre performance for 2 to 5 year olds by Frozen Charlotte, winners of the 2012 Critics Awards Theatre Scotland.

Patrick Talbot Productions presents

The Love Hungry Farmer

Adapted & Performed by Des Keogh

From the original by John B. Keane

'Fiercely serious and bruisingly hilarious' New York Times

Des Keogh – who we all know – retells the story of John Bosco McLane, a bachelor of 'indeterminate' age and according to his own assessment, 'past his best' and evidently still a virgin. McLane's amorous adventures range from the hilarious to the pitiful.

'Keogh is a wonder; a master-storyteller' Associated Press

See Des weave magic in this hugely successful award-winning show.

Scullion

Back to Dun Laoghaire, their original creative home

It's the summer of 1979, and Sonny Condell shares a Dun Laoghaire flat infused with the smells of the ground-floor chipper. Along comes Philip King; Scullion is born, and the rest is musical history.

Now Sonny, Philip and Robbie Overson triumphantly return to the borough with old songs and a new album Long Wave. Eclectic as always, Scullion remain true to their roots. Failte abhaile lads.

Declan O'Rourke

Declan returns to the Pavilion after his sell-out debut here in 2011. He has since toured extensively, opening for Paul Weller, Snow Patrol, The Cardigans and Paul Brady.

Declan performed at the BBC Proms-in-the-Park and at the Electric Burma Gala Concert in the company of Bono and Sir Bob.

'It's a rare gift that his music can bear comparison with so many classic era troubadours while still sounding utterly original' Uncut Magazine

SHUSH

Written by Elaine Murphy

Directed by Jim Culleton

Starring - Eva Bartley - Barbara Brennan - Niamh Daly - Deirdre Donnelly - Ruth Hegarty

'She'll be grand, hasn't she all of us to keep her going?'

Breda is newly separated, facing retirement and feeling a bit invisible – the last thing she wants is a birthday party! But her friends are determined to cheer her up and they descend on her to celebrate – bad move, girls.

The Pavilion is delighted to welcome The Abbey Theatre as it presents Elaine Murphy's newest play Shush following her international success with Little Gem.
