Visually and aurally audacious, and as slippery in form as its central character, this elliptical sci-fi about an alien creature (Scarlett Johansson) who stalks down human prey, is a brilliant amalgam of fantasy and reality.

In a stunning early sequence of metamorphosis, the femme fatale goes out on the prowl, effortlessly luring men into an unimaginable void.

Through alien eyes, the world appears desolate, the men all hungry and wanting. Through human eyes, her insatiable drive feels strangely vindicated.

On the night of December 16th 2012, a young woman and her male friend boarded a bus in urban Delhi heading for home. What followed changed the lives of these two people and countless others forever. People poured onto the streets in grief and rage demanding justice. Legally prevented from revealing her real name – the press named her NIRBHAYA, “Fearless”. Who knows why one woman’s fate touched so many of our lives, but in the wake of her death, many of us began to break the silence and speak.

Internationally acclaimed playwright and director Yael Farber creates a searing new work that cracks open the cone of silence around women whose lives have been shattered by gender-based violence.

With an extraordinary cast and creative team from India, Farber brings us a blistering evocation of that terrible night and the ripples of change it set in motion. Tearing away the shame that keeps the survivors silent NIRBHAYA is a voyage into a tapestry of personal testimonies that speaks for a nation and world no longer able to hold the tides of change at bay.

MUSIC

Following his recent sold out show in Dublin, Lloyd Cole is set to return on his solo tour!

The talented Scot scored a string of hits as front man with The Commotions in the 80s such as Perfect Skin and Brand New Friend. He has since carved out a solo career, developing his distinctive song-writing across a range of styles.

Throughout, the quality of his writing has remained beyond question - always literate, peppered with cultural references and laced with humour.
