★★★★★ The Times

★★★★ "Utterly exquisite" Independent

Mon 31 Jan, 3pm & 8pm

€9/8 (Season Ticket Available)

English | Cert: 15A | 2021 | 107mins

The writers of The French Dispatch newspaper discuss articles for the next edition. Four stories compete: a travelogue, an article about a criminally insane painter, a tale of love during the student revolt, and a suspenseful tale of kidnapping and fine dining. Bursting with slapstick and whimsy, director Wes Anderson delivers another delight featuring an all-star cast including Adrien Brody, Tilda Swinton and Bill Murray.

Rahim is serving a sentence for a debt he couldn't repay. On two-day release from jail, he tries to convince his accuser to withdraw his complaint, promising to pay back part of his debt. Initially things work perfectly but slowly circumstances turn and Rahim is confronted with a crisis he would never have imagined. From Iranian filmmaker Asghar Farhadi, this is a knotted tale of morality and humanity.

Petite Maman

★★★★★ "A artistic masterstroke...very moving" The Guardian

Mon 14 Feb, 3pm & 8pm

€9/8 (Season Ticket Available)

French | Cert: PG | 2021 | 73mins

Petite Maman is a beguiling tale about the power of memory and imagination. Following her grandmother's death, eight-year-old Nelly returns to her mother's childhood home. While exploring the nearby woods, Nelly befriends a girl of her own age, with whom she finds she has a remarkable amount in common. Director Céline Sciamma delicately conjures a deeply affecting story about loss and acceptance.

COMEDY

Following a sell-out performance in 2019, Des Bishop brings his unique, comic perspective on life back to the stage.

His show Mia Mamma covers all things life and death! In seeing the funny side to everything, Des looks at loss, grief and the chaos that surrounds it. This is a show about motherhood and sacrifice, anxiety and grief, the mistakes you make as a mother and a son, and the hard road to forgiveness.

★★★★ "Hilariously funny" The Scotsman

The Henry Girls & Band

Perform the Music of the Boswell Sisters

Thu 26 May, 8pm | €22

MUSIC

The Henry Girls are three sisters from Donegal with a penchant for harmonising, and in this show they and their ten-piece band will perform a set of music by boundary-breaking jazz vocal trio The Boswell Sisters.

The Boswell Sisters made music that was steeped in jazz, blues, dixieland, ragtime and gospel, and their intricate harmonies and rhythmic experimentation earned them the nickname "syncopating harmonists from New Orleans".

They moved to New York in 1931 and recorded with the top jazz musicians around at the time, including Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller and Eddie Lang.

Already performed to great acclaim at Galway Arts Festival, Cork Jazz Festival and Earagail Arts Festival, expect to hear popular songs from the 1920s & 1930s (Heebie Jeebies, St. Louis Blues, Mood Indigo) as well as some rarities.
